

SHOPS
381-389 Bridge RoadHistory and Description

The first documentary evidence of the appearance of these brick buildings is in 1896, and the construction period was most probably sometime earlier in c. 1885. The massing of the buildings is well articulated by a central stepped gable pediment and secondary pediments to the end flanking buildings, elaborate window hood mouldings and parapets with decorative balls. Timber shopfronts and timber stallboards survive.

Statement of Significance

These late Victorian commercial buildings with their original timber shopfronts are a prominent feature of the Bridge Road commercial precinct.
