Description: A richly decorated stuccoed former bank building in the Italianate style and symmetrical about a central slightly recessed bay. Flanking double doors are surmounted by "oculus" windows and flanked by rusticated pilasters supporting entablature with tryglyph decoration. curved pediments form the upper level window heads and a central shield motif has had detail removed.

Condition: Good

Integrity: Good

History: The plans for this building were submitted and approved at the Bank commissioner's meeting of 30-7-1888. The present Clifton Hill branch was opened on 29-4-1968 and the sub-branch at Queens Parade closed in the 1968/69 financial year.

Significance: This former bank is an important public building in Collingwood for its prominence and free expression and rich detailing in the late Victorian Italianate mode.

Recommendations: Recommended for Planning scheme protection and for inclusion on the National Estate Register.
