istory: In 1883, Messrs. Beath and Schiess, clothing manufacturers owned a brick factory ("No.2") on this site (RB). By 1887 it had been demolished (enclosed land 40 ft. - ditto : RB). By 1888 a brick house had been erected thereon (RB), remaining there in 1898 (RB 1895, 96, 97, 98). In 1899 a brick factory had been erected there by Beath Schiess and Co. and was occupied by William R. Ball, manufacturer (RB), identified in S & M dir as clothing manufacturer. He remained there in 1907 but had left by 1910.

ignificance: A key element in the Beath Schiess and Co. complex in Sackville Street, this building contributes to the former industrial character of Collingwood and is of interest also for its associations with William R. Ball.
