HISTORY	The western section of the building is said to have been brought from Kangaroo Ground, and has been a butcher's shop since the early 1900s. At that time the other shop was a haberdashery. The shop is certainly present in many c1900s photographs of the Warrandyte township. The Sloan family have a long association with the shop. As a boy John (Jack) Sloan worked in the shop in the early 1900s when it was operated by his uncle Bill Sloan. Animals were held in yards on the corner of Webb and Brackenbury Streets before being slaughtered for the shop. Frank Sloan worked there in the 1930s Depression when the shop was operated by Dick Spetts, purchasing the premises himself in 1942.[14] The building is said to retain bush poles in the roof framing, and shingles covered by the iron roof. Creation Date Change Dates Associations Local Themes 6.04 - Local commerce & industry
